ANYTHING ELSE

There are many things I love about our work. First, it allows me (and my team) to use creative, analytical, and relational skills throughout the year –the rhythm of the admission cycle encourages expression/connection and introspection/strategy. Second, I believe in the transformative power of college for individuals, families, and communities – crafting a class of students from different backgrounds and experiences to share, learn, and grow is a privilege; doing this while keeping a college’s mission in mind is an art form! My interests in our field relate to the communications/marketing, staff development, and supporting women’s colleges. Outside of work, I’m usually seen cheering at one of my kids’ sporting events, riding my Peloton bike, or reading.
